

Snowslides Cut Off Idaho Towns, Fresh Cold Wave Moves In

(By The Associated Press)

A new cold wave moved into sections of the snowbound western states today and snowslides and minor floods menaced areas in the Pacific northwest.

Strong winds continued to swirl the mountainous snow in the western plains, hampering reopening of highways and clearing of rail lines. An Army troop train remained stalled at Rawlins, Wyo.

But the Army, Red Cross and other agencies planned no letup in the fight to save the lives of humans and livestock. The Red Cross at Rawlins had planes ready to make low level flights to drop rations to isolated ranch families. At least 10 families are believed in distress in the area.

The mining town of Burke, Idaho, was reported isolated by a 300-foot wide snow avalanche which buried roads, rail and communication lines.

Stalled Trains Freed
Other snowslides in western and northern Idaho yesterday closed several highways. A short wave radio and transmitter was to be dropped today to a construction camp at Anderson ranch dam where slides have cut telephone communications and blocked roads. Slides in some areas buried several homes, but no one was injured.

Warming remained one of the most critical states in the western blizzard area. Colder weather was forecast. Strong winds continued blowing piles of snow and hampering relief operations.

The Union Pacific Railroad's Transcontinental main line across southern Wyoming still was snow-blocked and trains were rerouted through Salt Lake City and Denver. More than a score of stalled trains were moved yesterday.

Temperatures moderated in the eastern states after near record highs for the date on Wednesday. Snow fell in parts of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York. Temperatures continued mild in the south.

Russians Rebuffed On Atom Bomb Data

Council Rejects Demand For U. S. Weapon Count

By MAX HARRELSON

Lake Success, Feb. 11 (AP)—The U. N. Security Council has once again rebuffed Russian demands for American atomic bomb secrets.

The latest test came last night when Russia tried to push through a resolution calling on the five big powers to tell the U. N. by March 31 how many atomic bombs they now have.

Only two of the council's 11 members voted for the Soviet proposal—Russia and the Soviet Ukraine. The other nine members abstained. The proposal was lost through failure to get the necessary seven affirmative votes.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik served notice, after his defeat in the council, that he would revive his demands in the arms and atomic commissions for immediate information on atomic bomb production. Those two commissions, however, are composed of the same 11 countries represented on the Security Council.

Jammed Horn Saves Auto Crash Victim

Huntsville, Ont., Feb. 11 (AP)—Harold Meredith was saved from burning to death by his automobile horn yesterday. His car skidded on an icy pavement, turned over four times and burst into flames. Meredith was knocked unconscious but the horn jammed and aroused him in time to escape.

Vandenberg Maps GOP Task, Says He'll Quit In '52

Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—The defeated Republican party was pledged by Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) today to the job of watchdog over American foreign policy.

Vandenberg declared the last election had not altered the "basic need" for a bi-partisan foreign policy and he said the GOP would hold the Democratic administration to "strict accountability."

He said it was the GOP's duty as "loyal opposition" to see that America's foreign policies are "sound and firm."

Meanwhile political friends and foes alike were deploring the senator's decision to quit public life after 1952.

Vandenberg, long a major voice in international affairs, made his retirement announcement coincident with his Lincoln Day appearance here yesterday.

Last night, in an obvious reference to last November's Democratic election victory, Vandenberg told a home state Lincoln Day dinner:

"In my view, nothing has happened to absolve either Democrats or Republicans from continuing to put their country first."

He also promised continued support of the United Nations and declared the cold war could be ended in 20 minutes if Soviet Russia were willing "in deeds as well as words."

Earlier Vandenberg disclosed his intention to retire in 1952 after completing his present term.

By that time, he said, he will be 68 years old and will have served 23 years in the senate. He observed, "I think that is enough."

One of those to express regrets was Sen. Connally (D-Tex). Vandenberg's post-election successor as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

"I regret (it) very much," Connally said.

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) called Vandenberg "a very great and fine public servant" and said he hoped the Michigan senator would "change his mind."

Likewise, Sen. Byrd (D-Va) and Sen. George (D-Ga) said it would be a "great and distinct loss."

Sen. Ives (R-NY) said for Vandenberg to retire would be "calamitous for the country."

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) said he did not always agree with Vandenberg in foreign policy matters.

Colored Margarine Sales Bill Buried

Senate Leaves Decision Up To Voters In April

Lansing, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Senate decreed yesterday that the voters must decide at the April election whether colored oleomargarine shall be sold in Michigan.

The Senate agricultural committee buried the oleo bill and a Republican Senate caucus split 10 to 10 on a motion to override the committee.

The bill was initiated by popular petition and, in the absence of legislative enactment, must go to the people.

The Senate's decision upset high O. P. strategy.

The bill had been rammed through the House, where anti-oleo farmers predominate, with the argument that if it went on the ballot it would attract a lot of city Democrats to the polls and maybe upset the Republican ticket at the polls.

This strategy had moved the Senate agricultural committee to report the bill out earlier this week, but the committee suddenly recalled it to hear opposition arguments by dairy interests. After the hearings, the committee killed the bill unanimously.

Members said they were impressed with the argument that the people should decide. That argument came both from the opposition dairymen and from W. A. Keasey, secretary of the Michigan Retail Grocers association which sponsored the initiatory drive.

Boone City Village Deserted By Smelt

Boone City, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP) Mayor Bill Smith of Smeltania, the village on ice faced the possibility today of presiding over a "ghost town."

His "citizens" are deserting Smeltania for a more choice fishing location near Advance four miles west of Boone City.

Mayor Smith's administration is not at fault. It's the smelt, who seem to be changing the habits of a generation by settling in new quarters.

From a group of four shanties at Advance the total has now grown to more than 60.

Meanwhile Smith continues to hold out at Smeltania in the hopes the smelt may return as suddenly as they left.

Score Hurt In CIO East Moline Brawl

Rival Unions Clash At Harvester Plant

East Moline, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP)—About 20 persons were injured, including two top officials of the CIO United Auto Workers, in a 20-minute pitched battle yesterday between some 300 members of two rival CIO unions.

Both officials were arrested after the bloody brawl at the gates of the East Moline works of the International Harvester company.

On one side were some 70 UAW organizers. They were opposed by more than 200 workers at the plant, members of the United Farm Equipment Workers Union.

Thirteen of the injured received treatment at a hospital for bloody and broken noses, cuts, broken arms, bashed heads and cracked ribs. Only one was a plant worker. The UAW unionists injured included John W. Livingston of Detroit, UAW vice president and director of the union's agricultural implement department, and Pat Greathouse of Chicago, UAW regional director.

Later Livingston and Greathouse were arrested on a disorderly conduct complaint signed by Arvid Sheets, president of FE Local 104. Sheets said he will ask state warrants today, charging the two CIO officials with inciting a riot. They were summoned to appear today. Before a police magistrate on the disorderly conduct charges.

The fire broke out in the loft of a long, wooden building, erected 20 years ago.

A guard called the night warden, C. W. Hood, and the two led the prisoners to a wire enclosed yard in orderly fashion.

The fire was discovered about 4:30 a. m. (EST) and was brought under control two hours later by the prison fire department and equipment from nearby Atmore.

Yoshida Relected Jap Prime Minister

Tokyo, Feb. 11 (AP)—An overwhelming conservative majority tonight reelected stocky Shigeru Yoshida as prime minister of Japan.

The leader of the Democratic Liberal Party, which is ultra conservative, received 350 out of 451 House of Representatives votes. He had resigned this morning to comply with constitutional procedure.

Conservation Laws Stir Old Stew For Lansing Lawmakers

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Lansing, Feb. 11 (AP)—The biennial stew over conservation laws was reaching a rolling boil today.

A bill to give the conservation commission sweeping powers over game seasons and a commission proposal that the $5 fox bounty be abolished were among the hottest flames under the pot.

Rep. Eugene C. Betz (R-Monroe) stirred up the fire that comes at each regular legislative session with his measure to give the commission authority to open or close seasons and set bag and possession limits as it sees fit on all game.

His measure goes beyond the recommendation of the commission. In the interest of culling out heavy deer populations in winter starvation areas, the commission asked for discretionary power over the deer regulations. This would permit shooting of does where necessary.

Betz proposed that the existing game seasons remain in effect unless changed by the commission. Any commission order changing seasons could be amended or repealed by the legislature after a year of operation.

Bounty Called Waste
A similar measure four years ago failed to pass by a slim margin.

The $5 fox bounty was lobbied through the legislature two years ago by some sportsmen's groups. They held it would benefit the lagging pheasant population by eliminating foxes, which they blamed for the decline.

The commission, which opposed the bounty in the first place, repeated yesterday that it was a waste of money. Game specialists insist that many more factors than foxes enter into the pheasant decline. The bounty money, they said, could be better spent in over-all restoration measures.

The commission recorded itself as opposed to a bill which would increase the bounty to $10 and increase retailers' commissions for selling hunting and fishing licenses from five to 10 cents each.

Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster said the increased bounty would cost $150,000 a year and the increased commissions $100,000.

Another measure designed to be fuel for arguments is a commission-backed bill to remove the six-inch size limit on bluegills, sunfish, perch and rock and calico bass.

A 30-day grouse season for both peninsula and increasing Hoffmaster's salary from $9,000 to $12,000 a year were urged on the legislature by the commission.

Six Cell Blocks Of Alabama Prison Destroyed By Fire

Atmore, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—Fire destroyed six cell blocks, dining rooms and office at Atmore State Prison farm today.

No one was injured. A preliminary check indicated none of the prisoners escaped.

The fire broke out in the loft of a long, wooden building, erected 20 years ago.

A guard called the night warden, C. W. Hood, and the two led the prisoners to a wire enclosed yard in orderly fashion.

Horwood Promoted; Will Run Chatham Experimental Farm

East Lansing, Feb. 11 (AP)—The retirement of four top administrators at Michigan State College was approved Thursday by the State Board of Agriculture, college governing body.

Retiring July 1 are Victor E. Gardner, director of the MSC agricultural experiment station since 1928; Charles E. Miller, head of the soil science department since 1930; Chester L. Allen, head of the civil engineering department since 1925; and Leroy S. Foltz, head of the department of electrical engineering since 1923.

Also approved were: Promotion of Russell E. Horwood to district extension supervisor for the Upper Peninsula. He will also become superintendent of the Chatham experiment station.

Appointment of Karl D. Bailey, Oakland county agricultural agent, as district agricultural agent. His territory will include Leawee, Monroe, Wayne, Washenaw, Macomb, St. Clair and Lapeer counties as well as Oakland.

State Workers Ask $14,000,000 Boost

Lansing, Feb. 11 (AP)—The State Civil Service commission today had under consideration demands of unionized state workers for pay boosts that would total an estimated $14,000,000 annually.

The CIO-United Public Workers and the Independent United Government Workers asked for a flat $50 increase for all state workers at a public hearing conducted yesterday. The AFL-federal, state, county and municipal employees suggested a 20 per cent increase.

The three union groups produced numerous witnesses who gave personal testimony declaring they were barely able to eke out an existence on the state pay roll.

All the witnesses were in agreement that the majority of civil service employees must have more than one in a family employed or take outside jobs to balance their budgets.

They declared that the state was losing its best workers to private employment and that the large turnover of personnel resulted in lessened efficiency and increased expense to every state department.

"I have two college degrees and gross $2,500 a year," testified Alexander Stacey of the Detroit unemployment compensation office. "All my friends laugh at me for sticking with the state. Pretty soon it may even be a disgrace to work for the state."

When the bill came up for formal vote yesterday, the first straight party line vote of the session sent the bill back to committee for a public hearing Wednesday.

The 61 Republicans had held a caucus and decided to stall the measure. The 39 Democrats then held their own caucus and decided not to.

Speaker Victor A. Knox (R-Sault Ste. Marie) said that both the Rev. E. C. Pretzman, superintendent of the Michigan Temperance Foundation, and James Dotch of the Michigan Table Top Congress had asked for the hearing before final action.

Democrats, peeved that the Republicans held up the session half an hour for their caucus, decided to help Rep. Norma D. Edwards (D-Detroit), sponsor of the removal of the barmaid ban.

Communists Charge 15 Churchmen With Spying And Treason

Case Linked To Trial Of Catholic Primate

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 11 (AP)—Communist-governed Bulgaria is going to put 15 Protestant ministers and officials on trial soon on charges of treason, violating currency laws and spying for Britain and the United States.

Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Topencharov said the churchmen already had "fully confessed" to the spy charges.

The government announced the names of those arrested for the first time last night, disclosed the indictments and named 12 American and British churchmen, educators and officials who it said acted as "contacts" in the spying activities, as early as Jan. 6, Dimitar Iliev, director of cults, had disclosed that "some" Protestant clergymen were under arrest.

"Terrible Thing"
(In New York an official of the Northern Baptist convention, President Truman's denomination, said the charges were a "terrible thing" and bracketed them with the treason trial of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, as part of a Communist "persecution of all religions—Protestant, Catholic or Jews.")

The last church census in 1934 listed 8,371 Protestants in Bulgaria, compared to 5,000,000 members in the Greek orthodox church, the national faith.)

The fifteen indicted are leaders of the United Evangelical church, represented in the church are the Methodist, Baptist, Pentecost and Congregational faiths.

Vassil Zizpov, head of the Congregational church in Bulgaria and religious representative of the United Evangelical church, was alleged to be the "the treasonable activity."

Others indicted include: Yanko Icanov, his deputy and supervisor of Methodist churches in Bulgaria.

Nikola Mihailov, head of the Baptists.

Georgi Chernev, head of the Pentecost church.

The four named are members of the Supreme Council of the United Evangelical church in Bulgaria.

Contact Men Named
The other eleven are Protestant ministers.

In addition, Topencharov said two or three more trials of Protestants will be held in the provinces. He did not say how many would be tried.

The indictment named 12 Americans and Englishmen as "organs of foreign intelligence and representatives of international reactions who visited Bulgaria at various times since 1944 and contacted the 15 accused either directly or indirectly. These were:

Cyril Black, professor of Russian history at Princeton University, who has been an advisor to the U. S. delegation in the United Nations Balkan commission.

John Everts Horner, former acting U. S. political representative at Sofia.

Louis Beck, present U. S. commercial representative here.

Dr. J. Hutchison Cockburn, director of reconstruction and inter-church aid of the World Council of Churches, former moderator of the Church of Scotland.

Bishop Paul Garber, of Geneva, Switzerland, Methodist bishop of 11 European nations and former dean of the Divinity school at Duke University.

Robert Tobias, of the World Council of Churches in Geneva.

Elain Cooper, former principal of the Methodist-sponsored Lovche College in Sofia, now a teacher at Bridgeport, Conn.

Maj. Thompson, a former member of the British mission to Bulgaria.

Robert Strong, Col. Thompson and Stanley Andrew, none of whom was otherwise identified.

130-MILE BELT TO CARRY ORE

Would Also Haul Coal From Ohio River

Cleveland (AP)—Plans were announced today for a 130-mile system of conveyor belts to haul iron ore from the Great Lakes to the Ohio River steel mills. The belts would carry up to 20 million tons of Ohio River coal a year on the return trip back to the lakes.

H. B. Stewart, Jr., president of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railroad, announced formation of the new corporation, Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc.

The conveyor system, all elevated at least 22 feet, would cost 154 million dollars and would take at least three years to build. Terminal facilities at Lorain, O., on Lake Erie, and at East Liverpool, O., on the Ohio River, are estimated at a cost of 56 million dollars.

Stewart said the belt system of handling bulk cargo would save 20 to 45 million dollars annually in freight rates on iron ore, limestone and coal consumed by steel mills in eastern Ohio and the Pittsburgh area. Spur lines would serve Youngstown and Cleveland.

Private Financing—Private capital will finance the project, Stewart said, and there will be no public offering of stock. Right-of-way for the elevated, enclosed belt system will be sought through the Ohio state government, Stewart said.

Stewart estimates that if 15 million tons of coal are carried by the belt annually, the new system can cut $1.06 a ton from the rail cost of carrying coal from the Ohio River to Cleveland or Lorain. The saving would be $1.50 a ton on a 20 million ton annual total.

Belt conveyance of iron ore from Lake Erie to Youngstown would be 47 cents a ton annual total, or 60 cents on a 32 million ton annual maximum capacity, he said. Savings on ore to upstream Ohio River steel mills by belt and barge would be 53 to 66 cents a ton from rail rates, he estimated.

Pay Off In 20 Years—Stewart said the two-way haul of iron ore and coal should pay off the cost of building the conveyor belt system within 20 years. The belts will have a total annual capacity of 52 million tons, and can operate profitably at 30 million tons.

The system will require 172 separate belts, some of them more than a mile long. They can move 3,400 tons of coal an hour, and 5,400 tons of ore, which is heavier per volume. Belt widths would vary from 72 inches between the Ohio River and the Youngstown spur, 84 inches north from the spur, 100 inches to 120 inches for the spur to Lake Erie, and 120 inches for the spur to Lake Erie.

Engineers who have been working on the plans for several months say the system will require 151,000 tons of structural steel, 267 miles of rubber belting, 400,000 troughing idler units and 217 terminal power units.

The electrically operated belts would be controlled by a push-button system with an electric eye warning device to locate trouble spots. Plans call for the entire

SWEEEPING EFFECT

Pittsburgh (AP)—Plans to haul ore and coal between Lake Erie and the Ohio River by conveyor belts today took district coal operators and steelmakers by surprise. The effect of the proposed 130 mile system would be sweeping, most sources agreed.

A steel industry source, who asked his name be withheld, doubted that the belt conveyors could be built for the planners' estimate of 154 million dollars, plus 56 million dollars for terminal facilities.

Charge Goodwill With Wells Cash Store Burglary

Joseph Goodwill, 19, of the Chemical Plant location, yesterday afternoon waived examination in Justice Henry Ranguette's court when arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering in the nighttime and is held in jail in default of $1,000 bond for trial in circuit court.

It is charged that Goodwill entered the Wells Cash store at 25 and made off with a quantity of cigarettes and beer. State police and sheriff's officers said Goodwill confessed that he and Wayne Kinnart of Perkins were together on the job. Kinnart is held in jail in connection with the breaking and entering of the Dutch Mill and it is doubtful that another charge will be placed against him.

Entrance to the Wells Cash store was made by forcing open a basement window.

Help Cancer Cases Through Loan Fund

Persons needing treatment for cancer and unwilling to accept charity may receive loans without interest from special revolving funds maintained in Delta and 38 other Michigan units of the American Cancer Society, it was announced today by Mrs. A. M. Gilbert, commander of the local unit.

Two loans have been made within the past three months for the treatment of cancer cases in Delta county, Mrs. Gilbert said.

The counties have allocated $18,226 for their revolving funds for 1948-49. Delta's fund is still small, since last year's drive was the first to yield sufficient revenue to the local Cancer Society to start building the back-log of funds necessary for such a project.

In accordance with the suggestion of the Delta County Medical Society, the revolving fund is set up to assist in the cost of diagnostic tests as well as treatment. Loans range from a few dollars to as much as $100, rarely more. Decision to make the loans rest with the executive committee of the county unit of the American Cancer Society. This committee in Delta county is composed of Henry Boyle, Dr. W. A. LeMire, Mrs. E. J. Noon, Carl Wickman, and the several district chairmen.

Both of the recent loans approved in Delta county were for x-ray therapy.

In other cases in other counties funds have been loaned in cases where all available funds had been used for treatment, and a modest loan was made to complete treatment for pneumonia and influenza.

Reburial services for Lt. Thomas L. Powers, Jr., fighter pilot who was killed over Germany, were held at 9 a. m. today at St. Joseph's church, Rev. Fr. Patrick, O. F. M., offering the requiem high mass. Burial was in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

Pallbearers, veterans of World War II, were Jack Moberg, Robert Jensen, Doland Pfotenauer, Robert Osier, Lawrence Johnson and William Baum.

Solos of the requiem were sung by Mrs. Elmer Bonifas. At the offertory Mrs. Raymond Olson sang "Domine Jesu Christe" and at the close of the service Mrs. Eldridge sang "O Christe Salvator Mundi."

Military rites were conducted by the veterans' organizations. Participating were Lt. Donald R. Smith of the Escort Service who presented his colors to the mother of the young pilot; Arthur Fournier and Henry Mielke, American Legion color bearers; Paul Kangas and Jacob Bink, V. F. W. color bearers; Ernest Caron and Clyde Caron, color guards; Henry Boyle, Harold Bruce, A. E. Anderson, Edward St. Antoine, John Cleary and Gerald J. Cleary, firing squad; Archie Wood, chaplain; John Wood, bugler.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berg of Paulding, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. George Powers of Marinette were among those at the rites.

JOHN J. DWYER

Funeral services for John J. Dwyer were held at 10 this morning at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Martin B. Melican officiating. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers, members of the Knights of Columbus and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, were Dennis Curran, Frank Stoik, ple the treatment; where the wife of a family recently impoverished by fire needed immediate treatment; and in the case of persons who require the removal of a bit of tissue for examination under the microscope for definite diagnosis. The loan fund program is supported by contributions to the cancer control drive held each spring.

1,822 RECEIVE CHEST X-RAYS

Mobile Unit Will Be In Gladstone Next Week

Nearly 2,000 Delta county residents will have received x-ray chest examinations for tuberculosis after the state health department's mobile unit completes its visit at Wells today, according to Dr. William C. Harrison, district health director. The x-ray examinations began Jan. 31 at Bark River.

At Rock on Monday and Tuesday 400 persons were examined. Volunteers who assisted at the mobile unit were Mrs. S. Mannie, Mrs. A. Ciminan and Mrs. L. Roberts.

The x-ray unit was at Perkins on Wednesday where 157 persons were examined with the assistance of Mrs. Mary E. Godin, Mrs. Marie Mosier and Mrs. Shirley Stephenson. Yesterday at Flat Rock 105 persons were x-rayed. The volunteer assistants were Mrs. Ed Maringer, Mrs. Margaret Srock and Mrs. Z. Benson.

Next week the mobile x-ray unit will be in Gladstone. There is no charge for the examination and it is not necessary to disrobe to have the x-ray picture made.

OUTDOOR PLAY IS HEALTHFUL

No Danger Of Colds If Properly Dressed

Ann Arbor—Playing in the cold air is not dangerous for your child if he is properly dressed, according to Dr. James L. Wilson, of the University of Michigan Medical School.

Declaring that cold air itself does not bring about colds, Dr. Wilson, chairman of the Department of Pediatric and Communicable Disease, said that the best way to avoid colds is not to come in contact with people who have them.

"People who are coming down with a cold should isolate themselves for the first few days, at least," the doctor said. "Because of the possibility of cross-infection don't send your child to school if he has a cold."

Regarding immunization against influenza, the physician said the variety of virus is great and a vaccine has not yet been developed to protect the individual against all possible strains. The disease in children is so mild that routine immunization for them is not advisable, he explained.

Whooping cough, which may result in pneumonia, can be prevented by the injection of a vaccine made from the bacteria that causes the disease, the doctor declared. The proper time for this is during early infancy.

"To build up general resistance, the child should be fed a balanced diet which includes enough proteins (meat, egg, cheese, milk) and vitamins," Dr. Wilson said. "The foods that a child eats hungrily, if they are varied enough, are usually the best for him. Don't insist that a child eat more than he wants to."

The main thing to watch for is when the child does not show the proper degree of hunger when he comes to the table, the doctor explained. This may be the result of bad handling by the parents. The child's appetite should not be used as a weapon to run the household, he asserted.

Another factor to avoid is the tendency toward excitement which may override the child's appetite at mealtime, the doctor warned. Children who would rather play than eat should be brought in from exciting play and be made to rest a few minutes

Nana Harvey Retires After 38 Years With Bell Telephone Co.

Nana B. Harvey, for nearly four decades the "voice with a smile" to telephone subscribers in this area, has retired from the Michigan Bell Telephone Company under its plan providing for automatic retirement on pension at 65.

An operator whose service record dates back to 1910, she can boast of being on duty during two history-making periods. She put through calls of jubilation and heart-break during both World wars.

Starting as an operator here in Escanaba nearly forty years ago, she became chief operator in Gladstone in 1921. Two years later she was transferred back to this city, where she remained with the company until her retirement.

Upon retirement, she was presented with a wrist watch in recognition of her service with the company. In addition, she received a billfold and a life membership in the Wolverine Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America, an organization comprised of those with 21 or more years of telephone service.

Nana Harvey was born in Stephenson. Her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mills and their two children make their home with her at 517 First avenue south.

FAGER TO TALK AT CHURCHES

Race Relations To Be His Topic Sunday

The Delta parish of Congregational churches will have as its guest speaker on Sunday, Feb. 13, Frank Fager, executive secretary of the Mayor's Council on Human Relations, Minneapolis. Mr. Fager will speak at the Rapid River, Cooks, Fayette, and Isabella Congregational churches to celebrate Race Relations Sunday. This Sunday, close to Abraham Lincoln's birthday, opens race relations week in Protestant churches throughout America.

Mr. Fager did an outstanding piece of work on Mayor Hubert Humphrey's Council in creating good will between different races and religious groups in Minneapolis. Humphrey is now Minnesota's junior senator.

In addition to telling the story of race relations and religious harmony, Mr. Fager, a Congregational layman will bring news of the merger of the Congregational churches with the Evangelical and Reformed churches. This merger was approved at Cleveland on Feb. 5. Mr. Fager was a delegate. The public is invited to any of the services: Rapid River 9:30; Cooks 11:30; Fayette 2:00; Isabella 4:00.

Plarmigan Planted In Upper Peninsula

Lansing, (AP)—The first release of Canadian plarmigan Arctic grouse) in the Upper Peninsula has been made, the conservation department reported.

Thirty-one of the birds, shipped from Northern Saskatchewan, were released in a willow area near the Paint river.

They were the survivors of an air shipment of 54 birds made by G. A. (Andy) Amman, department biologist in charge of the Canadian expedition.

Under a program instituted by conservation commissioner Harold J. Richards of Caspian, the game division is attempting to obtain several score plarmigan in an effort to establish them as an Upper Peninsula upland game bird.

Only a few of the birds had survived earlier smaller shipments.

SIX TROOPERS SENT TO U. P.

Richard Beach Of Flint At Manistique

Marquette, Mich.—Having successfully completed a nine weeks' intensive training course at the East Lansing headquarters of the Michigan state police, Marvin D. Anderson has been sworn in as a probationary trooper by Commissioner Donald S. Leonard and assigned to the Marquette post.

He is one of six probationary troopers sent to Upper Peninsula posts after completing the training course. All training school graduates must serve a probationary period of six months before being confirmed in their appointments.

Trooper Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Looman, 652 Four-Mile road, Grand Rapids. He served with an ordnance unit during World War II.

The other probationary troopers sent to the Peninsula, together er with their home towns and assignments, are:

Robert Beach, Flint, Manistique.

Richard North, Flint and Norman Lee, Alpena, both assigned to Iron Mountain.

George Samu, Birch Run, and Richard Terptrak, Grand Rapids, both assigned to Wakefield.

Candidates for the next state police school are now being recruited. Men interested in state police work can obtain information from Sergeant James Smith, Marquette post commander.

"One-Armed Bandits"

CITIZENS who may entertain the half-baked idea that slot machines might be helpful in boosting the resort business or providing new sources of tax revenue for local governments should read the article appearing in the current issue of Collier's magazine.

The story is of particular interest to Escanaba readers because it relates an incident concerning Dudley Jewell of Michigan City, Ind., former secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Jewell was secretary of the Albany, Ind., Chamber of Commerce when that organization launched a campaign to rid the community of the gambling menace. One day a gambling mobster walked into the Albany C. of C. office, whipped out a knife and slashed Jewell across the face.

Collier's Weekly states that the big slot machine syndicates have launched a drive to legalize their operations in many communities on their promise of an easy source of governmental revenue. Machines are being pushed as tax panaceas in such states as Oregon and Colorado.

New Albany, Ind., launched its drive against slot machines after they had been found contributing to juvenile delinquency and causing the mayor to commit suicide. The big-time racketeers have gone in to the slot machine business. Communities that permit them to operate invite gang shootings, bribery of public officials, juvenile delinquency, thefts, misappropriation of funds and all the other evils that accompany the gambling racket.

Urges Liberal Party

GOVERNOR DEWEY gave his anticipated "fighting speech" at the Lincoln day dinner in Washington on Tuesday night.

The progressive and liberal elements of the Republican party liked it, while the reactionaries, like Senator Brewster of Maine, asserted the New York governor killed any chance of again winning the presidential nomination from the G. O. P.

Governor Dewey expressed his personal opinion that it was the kind of talk he should have given in the campaign. Believing that victory was in the bag, the G. O. P. candidate pulled his punches, apparently on the advice of party strategists. The day after the election America rubbed its eyes and found to its surprise that Truman had won.

Dewey demonstrated he could engage in a slam-bang campaign when he stumped the state of Oregon to wrest the preferential primary nomination from his Republican opponent, Harold Stassen. If he had continued along this line in the national campaign, he might have captured the public's admiration in the pivotal states which went to the "little guy from Missouri" who refused to admit he was licked, and wasn't.

The Battle Of The Soo

HATS OFF to the citizens of Sault Ste. Marie!

You can always count on the people of the Lock City to put up a hard fight for anything they want in the way of community improvements. Time and time again it has appeared that Sault Ste. Marie was going to get a bad break. But undiscouraged, business men and other individuals and organizations have launched spirited campaigns. They have sent delegations to Lansing, to Washington, D. C., and mostly every time they have come back with the bacon.

Sault Ste. Marie is strategically located on the St. Mary's river through which 85 per cent of the Lake Superior region's iron ore passes on its way to the lower lakes furnaces. It long has been recognized as a primary military objective, and the United States Army maintained an army installation there for decades to protect the vital Sault locks.

During World War II, Sault Ste. Marie boomed as the army increased its garrison at Fort Brady to give additional protection. Barrage balloons flew high above the Sault, and two huge airports were constructed at Raco and Kinross as bases for interceptor planes.

At war's end, Sault Ste. Marie was shocked when the U. S. Army announced it was scrapping Fort Brady. But the energetic boosters didn't give up. They got busy with committees, junkets to the state and national capital, and editorial blasts in Editor George A. Osborn's daily newspaper, the Sault Ste. Marie News. When the smoke had cleared away, Sault Ste. Marie had a branch of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and a state mental hospital occupying the quarters deserted by the troops.

A few weeks ago, another bombshell landed in the Soo. The U. S. Army announced it wanted Fort Brady back for it had decided it was necessary for safeguarding the locks. Sault Ste. Marie didn't know which way to turn for a brief spell. Michigan Tech wanted to retain its Sault branch, and the state of Michigan insisted it had no other place for the 550 mental patients now housed in the Fort Brady hospital. Sault's final decision was to fight to keep the two state institutions and sell the U. S. Army a plan to build new military installations.

This week, a delegation of state officials and Sault Ste. Marie boosters were in Washington to plead their case. They received assurance from the military that Michigan Tech and the mental hospital would be allowed to stay about one year longer, at least. In the meantime, they will press for a completely new army installation, and we're willing to bet they will get it.

Thawing Out The Pump

THERE is an art to thawing out the pump. From the time of deepening gray of December until the blue-sky promise of March, a farm lad expected that one of his regular morning jobs would be overcoming the recalcitrant mechanism that lifted water to the barnyard trough. The kitchen pump was not too bad. True, when the temperature flirted with zero and the claspboards snapped like pistols as a boy was dropping to sleep in his snug featherbed, he knew that both pumps would be caught in the morning. But the kitchen pump was tolerably open to reason; a few cupfuls of hot water brought it to the functional level.

The stubborn barnyard pump was an enemy of different caliber. Before a young man went out to help with the milking and feeding, he put two large copper kettles over the front covers and stoked the shining, black range with chunks of solid white oak and red maple. A fellow wanted to be sure of two boiling kettlefuls of water after breakfast. There is nothing humorous about thawing a barnyard pump on a zeroish morning. But it did cause one to grit his teeth occasionally to think of the description in the mail order catalog—"Hercules Anti-Freezing Drive Well Outfit." A future farmer wished the men who tossed adjectives and adverbs around so casually in the catalog description were in the barnyard with him on a bitter-cold morning when the wind had a razor edge as it came across the fields.

Experience had taught one the essential techniques. The procedure was nothing you could hasten by muscular force. A little boiling water was poured down the head of the pump as one steadily worked the squeaking, protesting handle up and down. Slowly and cautiously the tempo of water pouring and handle pumping were increased. At first there was only a peculiar, hollow, dry-coughing noise. No luck. More water. Faster with the pump handle. Just as one was coming to the end of the second kettle of boiling water the welcome sound came. The thin, guttural caterwauling ceased. There was a deeper, fuller, promising rumble, an encouraging pressure against the handle. Up gushed the cold crackling water and one settled down to pumping a troughful for the livestock. Thawing out the pump was just a routine task, but it made a young man certain that some day when he had his own farm he would have a gasoline engine to do the job.

CART-BEFORE-THE-HORSE ACT (Grand Rapids Press)

Scarcely a week passes without some new case to expose the weakness and inadequacies of the city's zoning ordinance. Currently the city commission is wondering what to do about a north-end greenhouse which was granted a "nonconforming use" when the present ordinance was adopted in 1923. This special consideration meant that the greenhouse could expand 100 per cent but could do nothing to "unduly prolong" its life. The theory was that the concern eventually would die out and the property be made available for residential use. But the greenhouse is still a thriving business. It wants to expand. Presumably it won't be able to grow unless the ordinance is amended.

While an up-to-date ordinance might not eliminate all such cases entirely, it would cut them to a minimum. They arise largely because Grand Rapids was much smaller 25 years ago than it is today; it wasn't clear in '23 whether individual areas would develop strictly as residential districts or as something else. Time has cleared up such questions. The character of most districts within the city is now pretty well defined. Meanwhile the zoning ordinance has become a patched-up affair, the product of numerous attempts to make it conform to reality. This cart-before-the-horse procedure has no excuse for being. It's a permanent source of headaches for property-owners, the board of zoning appeals and the city commission. An antidote in the form of a new, realistic zoning ordinance is obviously indicated.

TOO MUCH "YOO" IN THE WRONG WORDS

In her last broadcast of the program, "What's My Name?" quizmistress Arline Francis said to a man contestant, "You have a trem-yoo-loe in your voice."

I had never thought of it before, but it occurred to me at once that it is a quite common error to pronounce the word tremolo as "trem-yoo-loe." The correct pronunciation is: TREM-uh-uh.

Why does the erroneous "yoo" sound get into the word tremolo? I think it is because of the influence of the word tremulous which does have "u" in the second syllable

Labor Hearings Draw Attention

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington. — In a small, hot, crowded room the waspish voices go on as the witness sits penned in by close-pressed rows of spectators. Outside is a long file of citizens waiting patiently for a seat to be vacant.

This is the hearing on the new labor legislation that will come out of the 81st Congress. It vitally affects every citizen no matter what his calling or trade or lack of one, since this whole matter of umpiring the process of collective bargaining is directly related to the role government plays in our lives.

Yet, it sometimes seems that Congress is going about finding a reasonable solution in the most backhanded sort of way. Political partisanship has produced quarrels and name-calling. The Republican minority accuses the Democratic majority of trying to shut off the hearings in response to the dictate of the CIO.

That is one reason for the tension in the crowded court room. The Republicans complain, and with considerable reason, that cutting off the hearings arbitrarily will prevent a full analysis of the whole issue.

WILL BE COMPROMISE

Yet, in spite of the unhappy approach, the final legislation is likely to represent a fair balance between freedom of action and essential regulation. The balance of power rests, fortunately, with two men—Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Sen. Irving Ives of New York.

As they did during the long debate leading to enactment of the Taft-Hartley act, Senators Morse and Ives are working closely together. They shortly may put in a complete new measure as a substitute for the administration bill. If they do not follow this strategy, they will offer individual substitute amendments for each administration provision.

Democratic leaders will have to think a long time before rejecting the Morse-Ives compromise. In order to counter the votes of southern Democrats certain to favor the sterner Taft-Hartley requirements, the Democrats must enlist the middle-ground Republicans who are likely to be with Senators Morse and Ives.

Both Morse and Ives are opposed to giving the federal courts power to enjoin a union from calling a strike, as can be done now under the Taft-Hartley act. They both feel strongly that this violates a fundamental right.

RAILWAY LABOR ACT

Senator Ives favors a measure patterned after the Railway Labor Act, with a provision for a fact-finding board to look into the causes of a dispute. During a specified period, while the board was reaching its conclusion, both sides to the dispute would refrain from any action.

In Senator Ives' view much of the debate over the powers of the president to seek an injunction in the event of a national emergency produced by a strike is purely academic. As he sensibly points out, such an emergency calls almost inevitably for action by Congress.

What happened in the emergency produced by the railway strike of May, 1946, is a good example. As the movement of goods and supplies slowed to a standstill, President Truman rushed up to Capitol Hill to ask for emergency powers so sweeping that many, and particularly the heads of railway labor, were shocked and angered. Before Congress could act, the strike was called off.

Sen. Robert A. Taft argues that the disputed law, which bears his name, makes it possible through the power of injunction to prevent a nation-wide strike and thereby prevent the emergency. This was sharply challenged by Senator Morse during the hearings.

TAFT COOLS OFF

The latter pointed out that the coal strike continued for eight days after the injunction was issued in Washington. John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers were fined. But no one went to jail and, therefore, the injunction process in its ultimate application was not tested.

Senator Taft himself has cooled off somewhat on the injunction as used to stop a strike. He may vote against it in the final showdown. But he is still in favor of allowing the courts to enjoin a union that violates the law against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

At this point Senator Taft and the Morse-Ives combination are likely to part company. Senator Morse and Ives believe that the ban on jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts should be carefully spelled out in the law, which would provide for restraining action by the National Labor Relations board. Only when a union defied the board would the courts have the power to step in.

In other words, these two reasonable men believe that the power of government to force a settlement should be the ultimate and last resort. Their goal is to keep collective bargaining as free as possible from the heavy hand of government interference.

Both tremolo and tremulous come from the Latin tremulus, "trembling, quaking, quivering." Now why is it that tremolo has an "o" in the second syllable, instead of a "u," as is the case with tremulous? Here is the reason: The Latin tremulus entered English and became tremulous, retaining the "u." Tremulus also entered Italian, and became tremolo, which entered English with the Italian spelling unchanged.

So, the Latin tremulus has given us two English words—tremulous, the adjective, pronounced: TREM-yoo-loe; and tremolo, the noun, pronounced: TREM-uh-uh.

But there still is no accounting for the erroneous "yoo" sound in percolator (mispronounced (PER-kyoo-LAY-ter), similar (mispronounced "SIM-yoo-ler"), schedule (mispronounced "SKEDGE-yoo-uh").

The words should be pronounced: PER-kuh-LAY-ter, or PER-koe-LAY-ter; SIM-i-lar; SKEH-jool.

'Watch Out for Him, He Plays Dirty!'

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

BEING A GOOF—Well, said my friend as he put more sugar in his coffee, they sure are a bunch of goofy drivers.

You know it too, he continued.

You've seen them. They drive down Ludington street and do more weaving in one block than a Persian rug maker does in a year. Weaving! Escanaba has some of the best weavers outside of a stocking factory. They shuttle back and forth from one lane to another, making right turns from the left lane, and left turns from the right lane. They keep a bobbin' and a weavin' until traffic is all snarled up.

That's you, I said—I snarled.

You're one of the best snarlers in town. You snarl at goofy drivers, but what do you do about it? Say, he snarled, I'd do something about it if I had a chance to write for a newspaper.

COURTEOUS—The auto drivers in Escanaba are not half as bad as they are claimed to be. We know from personal experience. One day we were walking west on Ludington and when we came to an intersection a car approached from the north. It pulled up halfway across the crosswalk and stopped.

I looked at the driver to see whether he was going ahead. He looked at me—and with a grand and condescending gesture he waved for me to walk around the front of his car and proceed about my infinitesimal business.

Being on foot I lacked his advantage of position, but I summoned up enough courage to wave to him to go through first. No, he waved back peremptorily, you go. I waved at him. He waved at me. By that time a crowd had collected and I turned around and walked back in the direction from which I had come.

I refuse to have any motorist wave me around like an old piece of pedestrian. If he wants to direct traffic, let him apply for a job on the force.

KINDLY—I am one of those who each day can be classified as both a pedestrian and a motorist. I get where I want to go around town by auto and shank's mare. This gives me an opportunity to present the viewpoint of both sides of the question.

From the standpoint of the motorist there is nothing more annoying than a pedestrian who is blind, deaf and dumb. I'm speaking from experience on this, too. This pedestrian I'm talking about is like the old joke about the moron: Why did he take a knife and pistol with him when he went shopping? Answer: So he could cut across the street and shoot up the alley.

The pedestrian who cuts across the street and shoots up the alley does so without looking to the right or left for oncoming autos. Without hesitation he will walk against the red light at an intersection, or jaywalk through traffic in the middle of the block.

As a motorist, I would say that pedestrians are their own worst enemies. Their lives are spared only because motorists are kindly humanitarians who do not like pedestrian bumps in the fenders of their new cars.

CONSIDERATE—Motorists in Escanaba have a little game they play with each other. They call it "Stop You Fool Or I'll Run You Down." They do this to pass away the time and make motor-ing a pleasant experience. In this way they are considerate of each other, striving constantly to entertain and enliven what might otherwise be a dull and uneventful day.

The game is played at intersections and is particularly amusing where there are no stop signs. There are no rules to the game, which makes it more fun. It is marked by a fast approach, a determination not to be intimidated, and little or no use of brakes.

The winner, of course, is the one who gets through the intersection first. The one who slows down is the loser. But, of course, he may have a chance to win at the next corner.

CAUTIOUS—My friend who declares that Escanaba motorists are reckless must be wrong, for I have seen some very fine examples of caution.

There is the driver who takes no risk at any time. You will always find him driving slowly and carefully down the middle of the street or highway, one wheel on each side of the centerline. He discourages speeding and will hold the center of the road no matter how many cars must string along behind him. Oncoming traffic always slows down, recognizing that here is a driver who believe in playing safe.

At stop lights he approaches the intersection slowly, and then carefully noses his car part way into the cross traffic. This shows how he is always thinking of the other fellow. Other driver must slow down to avoid him, and pedestrians must watch sharp when they dodge around his car on the crosswalk. Being a cautious man he might decide to back up. That would teach them a lesson.

New York (AP)—Once upon a time there was a young smart alec rat called Sharpy. Yes, a real four-legged rat.

One night as Sharpy was nosing around he came upon a strange sight.

A little old man only half-a-foot high sat on a footstool bathed in moonbeams. He was blowing upon a small reed. And the music he made was sweet. Sharpy listened to the eerie tune and then said:

"You're really out of this world, Mac."

"Of course I am," said the little man complacently. "I'm a leprechaun—an Irish fairy. You see, this is a magic reed. When I blow on it and wish everybody to do something—why, they just have to do it."

"Anything?" asked Sharpy.

"Yes, anything," said Mac, the leprechaun. Sharpy immediately grabbed the reed. He blew upon it and wished: "Get going, Mac."

The leprechaun hesitated a second and then disappeared.

Sharpy ran down to the basement and told his family their troubles were over. He had a magic reed.

"This I gotta see," said his dad.

So they crept into the cook's bedroom. Sharpy piped his tune and wished for her to get up and put some cheese on the kitchen floor. She did. The cat came prowling near. Sharpy blew again and wished: "Stand on your head."

Up went the cat on its head—and stayed there.

"My boys said Sharpy's father, 'I always said you'd be a great rat. I'm proud of you.'"

"Why not," he said, "use this reed to destroy all the enemies of our race?"

He decided to start with—to get rid of all the cats, dogs and people in New York City.

Sharpy transfixed a taxi driver with his magic music, and commanded the cab. He crawled up on top. As six giant rats held a megaphone before him, he blew upon his reed and thought:

"Cats, dogs and humans—follow me!"

And they did. Out from the homes, shops and skyscrapers poured cats, dogs and people, capering together in the streets behind Sharpy.

But when the tremendous mass of cats, dogs and people reached the waterfront up spoke a grey, wise old rat:

"Just a minute, Sharpy. What's next?"

"Why, I'm going to tell them all to jump in the water," said Sharpy.

"If you get rid of all the people, who will rule the world?" cautioned the wise old rat. "Why we'll have to—the rats. And do you know what that means? It means that in time rats will be come tame—like people? We'll have to work for a living. Do we want that?"

Sharpy hesitated. But the lust for power was strong in him. He raised the reed to blow again. Instantly the wise old rat snatched the magic instrument from his paws, broke it in half, and threw it on the ground.

That broke the spell. The rats jumped from the cabs and ran for the nearest holes. The cats began to chase the rats. The barking dogs began to chase the cats. The people started to run after their dogs.

And everybody cried: "Who's shoving?"

Moral: Nobody wins in a rat race.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Not since the pigs got out and mused up our lawn has my wife been as irked at me as last week when I stood in front of the Argentine embassy checking on admirers of Gen. Harry Vaughan, the president's military aide, when he received his medal from Dictator Peron.

She said it was undignified, that I made a spectacle of myself and that I should save my energy for more important things.

Probably she is right. She usually is. Of course, Mrs. P. has always wanted me to be a pundit like Walter Lippmann, even though I tell her that I've been a working reporter all my life and can't get over it. Moreover, she has to put up with a lot of ribbing about me from all sorts of people and even some snubbing from the social pigwigs with whom my name is mud. So I don't blame her for being sore.

Furthermore, I did feel foolish standing out in front of the Argentine embassy. The funny thing was that I have probably spent more hours and days inside that same embassy than anyone else in Washington.

ONCE DEMOCRATIC ARGENTINA

That was back in the days when I was writing for La Nacion of Buenos Aires and when Argentina, then a democracy, was trying to strengthen its ties with the United States.

We had some distinguished Argentine ambassadors in those days, including Filipe Espil and before him Honorio Puyeredon. They frequently argued with the United States. They vigorously opposed our high protective tariff, especially our restrictions on meat and alfalfa. But they kept things on a clean, aboveboard level. There was no unreasonable military force waving a sword in the background; there was no censorship of the press; or firing of the supreme court, or revolutionary intrigues in neighboring countries.

Puyeredon is dead now, after having led about the last democratic fight in Argentina, while Ambassador Espil married an American and was considered so pro-American that he had to retire.

The Argentine people are among the most charming and gracious to be found any place, and the members of the Argentine embassy staff today—even under Peron—doubtless are equally so.

However, that is not the point. The point is that Argentina has become the most undemocratic nation in the western hemisphere, and its influence—which is considerable—is anti-American.

U. S. VS. ARGENTINA

In other words, while President Peron is wooing Mr. Truman's military aide with a high decoration, he is simultaneously trying to undermine all the things the United States stands for in Pan-America.

Mr. Truman, for instance, has been a great champion of civil rights. He does not go in for the indiscriminate arrest of his political critics. He has also made a great many speeches championing the democratic freedoms, and his spent many billions of the taxpayers' money trying to bolster the discouraged democracies of Europe.

Yet simultaneously a whole row of democracies have fallen before military dictatorships right in our own Pan-American show window. And when the military dictatorships have knocked out the democracies, it is almost always because they have been inspired or secretly encouraged by Peron—the man who now makes it appear that he and the White House are as one through his ceremony in honor of Mr. Truman's military aide.

It was no accident that Peron gave that medal. He knew that its acceptance would be interpreted throughout Latin America as meaning Truman himself had given his blessing to the ceremony. He knew that it would strengthen his hand immeasurably—strengthen it to continue undercutting the United States.

That's why I took the trouble to give some publicity to the fact that there were a few people in this country who objected strenuously to having the White House linked with Dictator Peron. And in order to publicize this objection in the press of Latin America, it was necessary to dramatize it; do something spectacular—such as picketing the Argentine embassy.

INSIDE THE EMBASSY

Incidentally, here was something Mrs. P. doesn't know about—yet. I also had one of my assistants inside the Argentine embassy during the Vaughan party. Here are the notes he wrote after the shindig was over:

"Very few dignitaries present. Your vigil at the door must have scared them away. Only senators were Melville Broughton of North Carolina and Dennis Chavez of New Mexico. (The latter got a free trip to Argentina at Peron's expense.) Gen. Wallace Graham, Truman's doctor who got caught speculating, was there, but Mrs. Kenneth Royall, who, an Argentine aide told me, had promised to come, backed out.

"You may describe this medal," General Vaughan told a reporter, "as bestowed by special dispensation from Drew."

Countess Marries
American Colonel
After 30-Year Wait

Windsor, Ont., (AP)—After two wars and 30 years, an American Army colonel and a French countess are husband and wife.

Col. Alfred J. de Lorimer, 55, and Countess Elisabeth L. Jaunez des Mares, who met in Paris in '18, were married in St. Andrews Presbyterian church.

The countess' first husband, whom she married after the first World War, was killed in action in the second.

Again the blond countess met de Lorimer—in Berlin upon the entry of the American troops. Her fortune gone, she was a clerk in a book store, a job that followed four years as a Gestapo prisoner.

The colonel and the countess plan a California honeymoon.

Mother Decides
On Common Sense

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

"I've resigned from the child study club, and packed away my books on child psychology," I recently heard a conscientious mother say.

The reason? She just made up her mind that she was doing too much worrying about how she was bringing up Junior.

"From now on," she said, "I'm going to use common sense, as much patience as I have, and try to enjoy having a child around, instead of scaring myself silly fearing I'll make some grave mistake that will ruin my child."

There are a lot of overly-conscientious mothers who would probably get along better with their children if they did the same thing.

For the woman who can't take child psychology with a few grains of salt can get awfully depressed just thinking of how she might be warping her child's personality.

to be a wise mother. And if there is anything a child needs, it is a mother who has confidence in herself and in her own judgment.

Without that confidence a mother tends to be inconsistent.

A safe rule, perhaps, is to stick to studying child psychology if it gives you confidence and makes you feel more capable of handling your job as a mother, but to put the books and the lectures aside if they make you doubt that you have what it takes to be a good mother.

Is This Recession Or Is It Plateau?

New York, (AP)—Is this it? The recession so many people have been seeing just around the corner now for three years.

Or is it a plateau? The leveling off of the inflation spiral. The shakedown of prices and production into something a little closer to the economic facts of life.

Or is more inflation likely, as some government advisors say?

The economists certainly are offering a wide, and conflicting, choice of reasons for the commodity price break. Some federal officials say it's all due to speculation on the Board of Trade. Other private economists say it's the return of the law of supply and demand. The president's loyal opposition says it's the fault of high taxes—nothing left over for the purchase of goods.

"The leveling off or softening of some prices has been exaggerated or misinterpreted," says Leon H. Keyserling, vice chairman of the council of economic advisers. He thinks inflation is still a real threat.

Certainly the American people have never enjoyed a period of greater general prosperity than in the last three years. And just as surely there has never been a boom in which people had so little confidence.

Every man and his brother has been putting aside something—when he could—because he hadn't the least particle of faith in the prosperity all around him.

Each step up the inflationary ladder was accompanied by warnings: "This can't last—Tomorrow comes the recession." Each sign of softening—like the commodity price break of a year ago—brought some cries of "this is it—the recession has started."

And each time, up to now, inflation forces reformed and went higher and higher—record peaks of production, of national consumer income, of personal savings, of high wages, of inflated prices, of impressive corporate earnings. And now—well—certain things have receded from their peak. A few others are still going up. The majority seem to be standing still, waiting.

And every time some one got hurt, he ran to the government for protection. He asked the government to buy up his surplus goods, protect him from competition, prevent his own prices from falling but to bring down the cost of the things he must buy. Controls have been the order of the day.

The present readjustment, sparked again by the commodity price break, may be but another sign that the nation's business and economic life is getting back into perspective. Would more controls soften the jolt? Or would they merely confuse and delay normal readjustment?

The average individual's personal budget has been all out of kilter for several years. He has been paying a greater part of his income for food and for clothing than he did before the war.

A drop in purchases at the retail stores at this time doesn't mean necessarily that people have everything they want. Few people do. They still have about as much money now as they did a year ago for the necessities, the conveniences, even the desired luxuries. In spite of the lay-offs here and there, the general income level is about as high as it has ever been.

Farm income is down—the first time in 10 years. But even farmers admit that it has been unusually high and couldn't hold—not even with the helping hand of the government holding them up. And farm income is still higher than it was before the war, even at the new postwar low prices.

Production in the soft industries—textiles, home appliances and the like—is off from the postwar peak, attained under the artificial stimulus of pent-up wartime demand. But it is still above the prewar level. And people are going right along wearing clothes, replacing wardrobes, and buying refrigerators as they find the money.

Home construction has slumped, mainly because of the soaring costs. But that doesn't mean the nation has all the homes that people want. New homes will be built when costs get shaken down, as material scarcity gives way to material abundance. And when a man's personal budget gets into balance again; when he has more of his pay check left over after feeding and clothing his family.

Vienna's famed coffee houses were instituted in 1683 when a Pole discovered a bag of brown beans left by retreating Turks. learned to brew them into a drink, and set up a cafe for appreciative consumers.

Snow never falls on one-third of the earth's surface.

How's your goose step?

SOUND silly? Are you so sure? Hitler is dead but not his ideas. Some people would like to impose them on you.

Under new slogans individuals are forming committees and working to limit—and destroy—your freedom. Hiding behind appealing catch phrases, they wait the day when they can come out in the open and take over.

In the meantime they strive to win your support. They are asking you to put on your own chains. They dare not let you know their aims. They want you to believe and follow them blindly.

Newspapers are their first target. If they can destroy newspapers, they can enslave you. The fight is not so much against newspapers as against you.

If they could, they would control the contents of this newspaper as a means of controlling your mind. They are agitating for limiting the freedom of the press. They know that as long as this and other newspapers print facts and opinions freely you are informed. With information you can sit in judgment and decide what you want to believe.

Now you can read both sides of controversies. You can study contradictory statements. Those who would rob you of your liberties do not want you to do that. In their hands this newspaper would print only what they want printed. Their laws, their mistakes, their venality—none would be criticized. You would read what they told you and in time, without access to other information, you would accept your lot as those under Hitler did—and now do under Stalin.

A dictatorship can't live with a free press. And a free people can't live without one.

A free press is the bedrock under democracy. It doesn't belong exclusively to newspapers or to the government. You are an owner. It includes your right to write letters and circularize them. And your right to read what you want to.

To forget that is to invite trouble. You won't always be able to spot your enemies. They are too clever for that. But you can be alert. You can defeat their drive to take away your freedom by denying your knowledge of what is going on. By keeping informed, by voicing your own opinions and defending the other fellow's right to have his say, you can be free and assure the freedom of your family and children.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

A VALENTINE FOR ELMER — Every year, lovers all over the country send thousands of Valentines to Loveland, Colo., like they send Christmas cards to Santa Claus, Ind. They like the romantic cancellations Postmaster Elmer M. Ivers puts on the cards when he mails them to the addressees. But no one ever sends a Valentine to Elmer — personal, for him. So a Cleveland, O., greeting card publisher decided Postmaster Elmer should have a big Valentine all to himself — and here it is, delivered by Annie Malony, a Denver radio actress. Piles of Valentine cards can be seen on the desk at right, waiting for this year's Loveland cancellation. Elmer blushed a little, but he liked the five foot square card. Mary did, too.

X-Ray Unit Here Next Week; Workers Chosen

Volunteer workers who will assist in handling applicants during the stay of the mobile X-ray unit of the Michigan State Health Department in Gladstone next week are announced by Miss Jean Miller, chairman of the volunteer workers' committee.

Next Monday, the first day, the unit will be at Gladstone high school and the students being X-rayed will be listed by the school nurses staff.

Tuesday the unit will move to the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company where in the morning from 9 to 12 Mrs. Myron Goodman and Mrs. G. Boydston will be at the desk and in the afternoon from one to 5 Mrs. Seymour Lewis and Mrs. Charles Burton will work.

On Wednesday the unit moves to a location on North Ninth near the Siebert Hardware where it will remain for the rest of its stay in Gladstone. Following are the workers for the remainder of the schedule:

Wednesday, 9-12, Mrs. L. J. Weingartner and Mrs. Sherman Sword. 1-5, Mrs. J. F. Richardson and Mrs. M. J. Neveaux.

Thursday, 9-12, Mrs. Fred Siebert and Mrs. Walter Tang. 1-5, Mrs. Gale Wescott and Miss Nettie DeVet.

Friday, 1-5, Mrs. Elmer Feldt and Miss Mildred Campbell. 6-9, Mrs. Milburn Nolan and Mrs. D. D. Stewart.

Monday, Feb. 21, 9-12, Mrs. E. Ryde and Mrs. Gordon Kelley. 1-5, Mrs. G. E. Boydston and Mrs. Wallace Cameron.

This year the unit will be operated on one evening, Friday, for a 3 hour period, 6 to 9 o'clock. This will provide persons who are unable to get down in the daytime an opportunity to take advantage of this unique health service.

Two Will Receive Nurses Caps Soon

Mary Ann Chroge, city and Jeanie Dahn, Brampton, are to receive their caps at capping ceremonies at St. Anthony's School of Nursing at Rockford, Ill., this weekend.

Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Drifts Drive Deer Into Salt Lake City; No Mountain Lions

Salt Lake City, (P)—The winter's blizzards have driven plenty of deer into Salt Lake City but apparently reports of visiting mountain lions are erroneous.

A veteran hunter said that if anyone "can show me a fresh lion track, I'll bring back the lion."

Owen W. Morris, who has tracked the elusive cats for 18 years, said his office at the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been deluged with telephone calls. All are reports of mountain lion or cougar tracks.

Morris, district agent for the service, said he personally investigated 14 of the reports. The marks were left by animals ranging from dogs to deer, he said.

Deep snow has driven hundreds of frightened and hungry deer into the city's suburbs.

A game official estimated that about 2,000 deer are in a 30-mile stretch along the Salt Lake valley. Elk have also appeared along the foothills.

Wild Ducks Baffle Farmer In Montana

By MORRIS CLEAVENER

Washington, (P)—A baffled Montana farmer lifted a desperate cry for the government to save him from the ducks.

Nearly beaten in the game of matching his wits against the appetites of 5,000 wildfowl, Ervin Weinheimer of Lewistown wrote Senator Ecton (R-Mont.) asking for a "fair chance and an equal opportunity for the farmer."

"It just doesn't seem to me that it is the 'American way' for the government to protect the ducks and in turn not to protect the farmer from them," he said. Maybe the government should feed the ducks, he suggested.

Here is a nibble-by-nibble account of the happenings around the Warm Springs Creek, Mont., countryside, as told by Weinheimer:

To begin with, he was hailed out last summer. But having 50 head of cows to feed through the winter, he cut 35 acres of hail-damaged barley and some wheat and stacked it for use as hay.

All winter there were 500 ducks around Weinheimer's place. That is, until two weeks ago. Then, about 5,000 of their hungry relatives moved in and cast their eyes on Weinheimer's haystacks.

"So they started tearing into the stacks," the farmer explained briefly and bitterly.

"You would think the ducks couldn't hurt a stack very much," he wrote Ecton. "I didn't either— but after the first day they had dug into the stacks about three or four feet at the base."

Scare them away? They wouldn't scare.

Whatever Weinheimer tried—and he tried about everything—was a disappointment, and the ducks went right on feeding on his haystacks.

He said the federal game agent advised him that he could try scaring the ducks with blank shotgun shells, but warned him not to kill any, or he might be hauled into court.

The ducks didn't budge when the blanks went off.

Finally Weinheimer bought some netting and put in around the base of his stacks.

"Then the ducks started going on top of the stacks,"

Weinheimer went out and bought more netting and put it on top of his haystacks. But he couldn't win.

He couldn't get to the hay to feed his cows.

All he asks, Weinheimer said, is legislation "to give fair treatment to both the farmer and the ducks."

SCOUT WEEK IS OBSERVED HERE

Parents Guests Of Two Troops At Fests

Scouting has reached another milestone in Manistique.

Celebrating the 39th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in the United States, two local troops were hosts to the parents of the boys in each organization.

Troop 460, meeting in the Lincoln school, officially entered the ranks of the greatest movement among boys when the membership cards were presented to the boys before a good group of parents on Tuesday night. Participation of the boys in the troop created much interest as they displayed their skill with knots and general knowledge of Scouting facts. Sid Bouwers as scoutmaster and Lionel Tyrrell, his assistant, gave evidence of good leadership as they conducted the different activities of the evening. A fitting climax to this first Parents' Night of the Lincoln P. T. A. sponsored troop came when the Scout Commissioner of Manistique, Paul Sobel, led in an impressive Tenderfoot Investiture. The three boys who received their first pins as Scouts will not forget the candlelight ceremony and the moment when one of their parents pinned the hard-earned pin on them. The evening closed with lunch being served by the troop committee which consists of John Hanson, chairman, Lowell Bertrand, Harvey McLaughlin, Everett Pasnow and Carl Wadell.

The troop sponsored by the First Baptist Men's Brotherhood, No. 461, with John Viergiver as Scoutmaster and Joe McDonough as assistant Scoutmaster, had its second "Parents' Night" as a part of Boy Scout week on Wednesday. Highlighting the evening was the presentation of tenderfoot pins and second class pins. Ten boys in a unique tenderfoot investiture given by Scout Executive Ed Kot of Escanaba received their first pins. A record was established for the troop when 12 boys were awarded pins for achieving second class rank. With approximately 25 parents in attendance the various activities of the evening, including songs and a campfire scene, had a splendid audience.

Paul Vizona May Attend Ski Meet At Salt Lake City

Paul Vizona, Manistique High school student, whose recent showing at a ski meet in Duluth places him well up among the top notch ski riders of the Middle West, may possibly go to the national meet at Salt Lake City on February 20.

His presence there will depend upon whether local sponsors of his trip will back him up in the matter of transportation. Those who wish to help send him should get in touch with either Len Harbick or E. J. Thompson. The time for helping in this matter is limited and backing must be secured early next week.

While young Vizona placed seventh at the Duluth meet last Sunday, the matter of points was very close between him and first place.

City Briefs

Rev. W. H. Schobert has entered St. Mary's hospital in Duluth where he will receive medical treatment for several weeks. The condition of William Courmay, who has been confined to his home on Chippewa avenue with illness, remains unchanged.

Mrs. Gladys Mueller left Thursday evening for Detroit where she will spend a week's vacation. While there she will attend the Sonja Henle Ice Show and a professional hockey game. She will also visit in Lansing before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pavlot spent Thursday in Marquette where Mr. Pavlot attended a meeting for real estate dealers. Jack Quick is in Chicago this week attending a Sportsman's Show.

Dairyman Asked For More Time To Study Ordinance

In a report of a meeting of the special committee appointed to draft a new milk ordinance held at the city hall Monday evening, the request of Walter Nelson of the Cloverland Creamery for deferment of final action was based upon his desire to study the ordinance more fully and not on any specific changes he wished to incorporate.

No action will be taken by the city council on a milk ordinance until the committee completes its draft of the proposed measure which is being framed from a model ordinance made by the state department of agriculture.

The ordinance committee will meet again on the evening of February 21 and should its draft be completed by that time the measure will be up for consideration by the city council at the next regular meeting following this.

The ordinance, however, is not likely to become effective before May 1.

Illini-Ohio State Game Tops Big 9

Chicago, Feb. 11 (AP)—League leading Illinois—defeated only by Purdue in seven western conference games—will play host to a potent Ohio State team tomorrow in the top attraction of a four-game Big Nine program.

The Buckeyes have won five conference games and lost three and must turn back the Illini to keep their title hopes alive. The return to the lineup of the ailing Dick Schmittke, one of the loop's deadliest shooters, coupled with the offensive sorties of Bob Radiger and Bob Donham provide Ohio State with a pulverizing attack.

The Illini, after playing the Buckeyes tomorrow, still must face Iowa, Northwestern, Michigan and Indiana. Only the Wolverines seem likely to prove a stumbling block for Coach Harry Combes' lads from Champaign. Iowa and Indiana will meet the Illini at Champaign. The Illini will face Northwestern in Chicago stadium and Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Against Ohio State, Illinois will be without the services of Burdette Thurlby, sophomore guard, who has been declared ineligible for the second semester.

Minnesota, runnerup to Illinois with six victories and two setbacks, will meet Iowa (1-5) tomorrow in the Gophers' field-house, Michigan, now in third place with four wins and two losses, will invade Indiana (2-4) and last place Northwestern (1-4) opposes Wisconsin (1-5) in the opener of a collegiate double-header in Chicago stadium.

Purdue travels to East Lansing for a non-conference game with Michigan State.

Northern Five Loses To Central, 63 to 35

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—Central Michigan won a 63-35 basketball victory over Northern Michigan here last night. It was sweet revenge for the Chippewas who earlier in the season lost to the Marquette team 54-48.

Central played a steady defensive game and led 37-13 at the half. John Parfitt led the winners with 12 points. Kirby and Schil each scored eight for the losers.

opponent from Springfield, Mo., were on top, 43-41.

Brunette Named Best Out-Of-Town Fighter

Special To Escanaba Press

Milwaukee, Feb. 11—Upper Michigan Golden Gloves champions, victors in the Escanaba sectional tournament last week, covered themselves with glory in the Milwaukee regional tourney concluded here last night by winning three individual titles, two outstanding team trophies and a special award that went to Joe Brunette, Canadian Soo, for being the outstanding out-of-town competitor in the open division.

Saddler Underdog In Title Defense Battle With Pep

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Sandy Saddler, a vicious knockout winner over Willie Pep last October, is a surprising underdog in tonight's Madison Square Garden rematch, the first defense of his world featherweight title.

The first Garden sellout crowd since Rocky Graziano fought Marty Servo in 1946, more than 13,500, will watch slim Sandy from Harlem try to prove it was no mistake when he flattened Pep in 2:38 of the fourth last Oct. 29.

Pep's loyal Connecticut clients are responsible for the sellout with at least 6,000 from Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport coming to town with cash to back their opinions. They can't believe that Pep, beaten only once in 135 fights before he met Sandy, was whipped by such a Johnny-come-lately.

Newspaper, radio and television reports to the contrary, they are going heavy on Wee Willie, the pride of Hartford, who was a big 5 to 14 favorite in October. It's likely the ex-champ will go in tonight at 5 to 7 choice although the odds have fluctuated wildly during the last two weeks.

It's the biggest betting fight in years, according to all reports and a new indoor gate receipts record for the 126-pound class probably will be set. The old mark is $71,869 for Pep-Chalky Wright in 1942. The night Willie first won the crown.

At 26, Pep is fighting for his fistic life as a beaten champ. His brilliant record will be obscured by another loss to Sandy, a spindly-legged Negro with the left-handed punching power of a welterweight. If Pep loses they'll label him "all washed up."

Perhaps Saddler—only 22—has the style to beat Pep. It looked that way in October. Willie is a master at the art of spinning an opponent but he couldn't handle Sandy. When he tried to twist Saddler he ran into that left hand uppercut that decided the fight.

In five starts since he fought Pep, Saddler has knocked out four men. That makes it 61 kayos in 99 fights since he turned pro in 1944.

Sports Briefs

New York—New York Yankees accused Cleveland baseball club of "unethical" practices after Indians signed Artie Wilson, Negro shortstop in Puerto Rico who had been approached by the New York Club.

Signed: Second baseman George Stuwessis by New York (AL); outfielder, Wally Westlake, pitcher Hal Gregg and infielder Romanus Basgalis by Pittsburgh (NL); outfielder, Del Ennis by Philadelphia (NL); pitcher Carl Scheib by Philadelphia (AL); shortstop Marty Marion, utility Erv Dusak, first baseman Nippy Jones and third baseman Don Lang by St. Louis (N).

Baton Rouge, La.—Ed McKeever, veteran college and professional football coach, was named backfield coach at Louisiana State university.

Tilden Sentenced To Year in Jail On Morals Charge

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden, ex-tennis champion of the world, was sentenced to a year in jail today—his 56th birthday.

Superior Judge A. A. Scott found him guilty of violating his probation on a conviction of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Beverly Hills, Calif., youth.

The grayling Tilden also was arraigned on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of another youth, Michael Schachel, 16, of Inglewood.

Judge Scott asked Tilden if he had anything to say and the tall athlete mumbled:

"No, sir, I concur with everything Mr. Maddox (his attorney) has said."

The judge said: "Young fellows still look up to you—thousands of kids and adults do. You gave your word as a sportsman that this would never happen again."

"The word of a sportsman ought to be good enough."

Tilden originally was put on probation Jan. 16, 1947, for a period of five years. He served seven and one-half months at the County Honor Farm as a condition of probation.

It was by far the best showing the U. P. team has ever made in regional competition. Seven of 16 U. P. scrappers on in two full novice and open teams advanced to the finals, and 10 in all survived opening tests Wednesday night.

It marked the second year in a row that Upper Michigan has won both flyweight champions and the third year in a row that it has won the 112 novice title—Brunette in 1947, Fred Bumbacco in 1948 and Leo Leask in 1949.

Soo Fighters Win
Oddly enough, that's the trio of champions for the U. P. this year. Peppy little Brunette won a close decision over Arthur Portley, Milwaukee, in one of the best fights of the night. Showing the benefits of his active amateur fighting campaign between Golden Gloves tournaments, Brunette scored with quick, sharp punches that gave him a narrow nod over Portley, Milwaukee's 112 open champion of two seasons ago.

Bumbacco, Canadian Soo, who made a big hit in Escanaba and Milwaukee last year, employed a two-fisted rapid-fire attack on James Goudy, Fond du Lac, to win by a TKO in the second round last night. He scored knockdowns in the second and third rounds before the fight was stopped.

Leask, American Soo scrapper, won the U. P.'s third championship by a decision over James D. White, Milwaukee Moose club. To win the outstanding team trophies in both divisions, believed to be the first time this feat has ever been accomplished here, the U. P. team had to edge Fond du Lac in the novice division and Milwaukee Urban league in the open division, a league that has a "stable" of some 300 fighters.

Returning Tonight
The U. P. team will return to Escanaba by bus at about 9:30 tonight. They were scheduled to leave Milwaukee at 3 p. m., Escanaba time, today.

Open Division
112—Fred Bumbacco, Canadian Soo, TKO third round over James Goudy, Fond du Lac, in finals.
118—Joe Brunette, Canadian Soo, decision Art Portley, Milwaukee, in finals.
135 (semifinals) — Al Massey, American Soo, lost by KO in third round to Myron Gross, jr., Fond du Lac.

147—Dick Nolan, Canadian Soo, lost decision to J. D. White, Milwaukee Athletic club, in finals.
160—George Daugherty, Munising, lost by KO in first round of finals to Frank Gillon, jr., Milwaukee fighter who was taller and heavier than Daugherty.

175—John Strophich, Escanaba, lost by decision to Richard Meyer, Fond du Lac, in semifinals.
Heavyweight — Fred Bloniarz, Perronville, was knocked out in first round by Max Kaminski, Milwaukee, semifinals.

Novice Division
112—Leo Leask, American Soo, decision James D. White, Milwaukee Moose club, in finals.
118—Bob Minor, Manistique, lost by TKO in second round to Dan Nicholas, Milwaukee, in finals.

135—Emmett Fagan, Manistique, lost by a knockout in the first round to Charles Majestro, Milwaukee, who was judged the outstanding novice fighter of the tournament.

Two Willies Defend World Billiard Titles

Chicago, Feb. 11 (AP)—The two Willies—Hoppe of New York, and Mosconi, of Barrington, N. J.—opened defense of their world billiards championships today against six survivors of a seven day national tournament.

The trio of cue artists who will try to snare Hoppe's three cushion crown are Joe Chamaco, of Mexico City, Dan McGorty of Los Angeles, and Juan Navarra, of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Mosconi, defending pocket billiard titlist, opened a double round-robin, three day campaign against Jim Caras, Upper Darby, Pa., Irving Crane, Binghamton, N. Y., and Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Iron Mountain, Feb. 11—To get ourselves in a mood for viewing the annual Iron Mountain ski jumping classic Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 26 and 27, we took time yesterday for another look at giant-sized Pine Mountain slide.

On our way back, we picked up our breath.

It happens every time.

We well recall our first look at Suicide hill in Ishpeming when we were brand new to skiing and ski jumping. Our reaction then was that anyone who would fly off that bump must at least be a distant relative of Superman. We compared it to a suicide leap off the Empire State building or Eiffel Tower.

And so well did the Central U. S. Ski association like our piece that it plucked it for the Central U. S. Ski news, and up-Marquette way, they still call us "Parachute" Ward.

We still get that reaction every time we look at either Pine Mountain or Suicide, and yesterday it was shared by brother Leonard and his friend, Bill Watson, of Cleveland, Ohio, who went through a big portion of World War II together.

Watson was very impressed with the entire Iron Mountain winter sports area, the big Pine Mountain scaffold, splendid slalom and downhill area east of the "bump," ice rinks and junior ski jumps, including the East Side Athletic association's new one to enable Iron Mountain "jumpers" to keep pace with Kingsford's aces.

Irving Johnson and LaVerne Trepp have done wonders with Pine Mountain Ski lodge and the slalom-downhill area. The set-up is as close to bigtime skiing as the U. P. could achieve without the Rockies, Adirondacks, Catskills or Appalachians.

The genial co-proprietors, both veterans of the 10th Mountain division, with which the late Torger Tokle served, have made many improvements.

Pointing to a new skating rink beside the lodge at the ski area, Johnson said: "It costs us more than it's worth. It's a liability and a luxury because it's used only by out-of-town guests." However, with a shrug of his shoulders, he added: "But if it makes a few people happy and brings them here, it's o.k."

Trepp explained that Pine Mountain's downhill run has a 250-foot vertical run and a 1,100-foot tow.

"Our ambition is to get another 75 feet of vertical drop by clearing an area east toward the old tower and running a tow up there," he said, with a gleam in his eye that bespoke the spirit, enthusiasm foresight these two young men have put into developing the Iron Mountain skiing area.

This season, they've instituted adult classes that are going over with a bang. Even such veterans of "limping Olympic" days as Leo LeFebvre and Cecil Langren are going in for the sport and learning to stem, snowplow and Christiana, with a "nasensprung" and "sitzmark" or two thrown in for good measure.

The area is lighted for night use and is getting a big play. Recently more than 20 girls from Rockford college, Illinois, and their chaperones made their fourth annual visit to the area, and frequently skiers from Wisconsin and Illinois come up for a weekend.

Dependent upon weather, operation of a skiing resort is a precarious business. New England operators estimated they lost $4,000, 900 in business because of the late snow this season.

Johnson said they had no skiing snow until January 18. But since then conditions have been near-perfect, and, despite the late start, they expect to make out o.k. this winter.

Unknown Has Stroke Lead In Texas Open

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—Lanky Dave Douglas, 30-year-old professional with a modicum of experience on the PGA tournament tour, held a one-stroke lead over a bulky field today as the $10,000 Texas Open moved into its second round.

Douglas, who helps his father, the pro at Rock Manor Public Course at Wilmington, Del., outstripped the big names of golf yesterday by shooting a six-under-par 65 over the Fort Sam Houston course's 6,379 yards. He is in his second year on the tour.

Breathing on his neck as the field of 228 entered its second 18-hole round were professionals Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va.; Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., and Alvin Krueger of Beloit, Wis., who turned in 66's. Next in line was Johnny Palmer of Eadin, N. C., who posted a 67.

Forty-five players did par or better with most of the low scores coming on the Fort Sam Houston course where the so-called big guns of the tour did their firing. The 6,400-yard par 71 Brackenridge Park course was pretty well taken apart, however. Two courses were used because of the heavy entry.

The split field changed courses today. Jimmie Demaret of Ojai, Calif., the tournament favorite, and Slammin' Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., defending champion, were among those in the ruck, although Demaret shot even par 71 and Snead had a 70.

HOT CELLAR FIGHT (By The Associated Press)

The grim fight down in the cellar of the National Hockey League offered a more interesting show today than the championship race itself. The Detroit Red Wings, with their 12 point bulge, are too far out in front to be overtaken any time soon. The battle in the lower sections of the standings, where Stanley cup playoffs spots are won and lost, continues to blaze hot. The Chicago Black Hawks dumped the New York Rangers back to rock bottom by defeating the New Yorkers last night at Madison Square Garden, 3 to 1.

Michigan-MSO Grid Relations Near Breakup

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—The number one football rivalry in the State of Michigan was near the cracking point this week.

Michigan-Michigan State football relations, begun in 1898, were dangerously near the severing stage.

Discussions of the MSC-proposed home-and-home series with Michigan began last June. Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Crisler refused on the grounds that such an agreement would:

1. Leave Michigan with a four game home schedule at times.

2. Work an inequality on some league teams such as Iowa and Indiana and Purdue, who have no such agreements.

3. Make inroads on Michigan's policy of athletic self-support. Michigan must support its athletic plant from athletic proceeds while MSC can meet deficits from the general fund, he said. Therefore, Michigan must fill its big 85,938-seat stadium as often as possible.

Demands for a home-and-home series grew however, until it reached the point where MSC officials said they would stick to their demands and Crisler declared he would stick to his. The question came up of who would be responsible if the long series were broken. The Spartans said Michigan would have to do the breaking. Michigan countered by saying it was willing to play here in 1950, 1951, and 1952 and would go to East Lansing in 1953. If MSC didn't want to play, they would be responsible, was the thought.

Against that background, the Spartans agreed to the Michigan plan. But not before the dispute had ascended through the vice-presidential and presidential levels of both schools.

It is doubtful, however, that the wrangling is over for good.

Beyond 1953 the two schools will settle their scheduling differences in the meetings of the Western Conference. But that will mean only a change in locale as both schools feel now, and probably will feel then, that their separate demands are justified.

Spartan Newspaper Criticizes Michigan

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—The University of Michigan position on the MSC-Michigan football schedule has been sharply criticized by the Michigan State News, Spartan campus newspaper.

In an editorial, the State News yesterday accused Michigan officials of "pursuing policies of open materialism." It claimed Wolverine officials "stooped to an all-time low. Their football policy has no higher purpose than making money."

Manistique Legions Bow to Cooks, 57-50

Cooks, Feb. 11—Leading all the way by about 10 points, the Cooks Independent quintet defeated the Manistique Legion in an exhibition contest here. Hartman, guard, was top scorer with 21 points.

Bound Draft May Be Cause Of Trouble In City's Steam Plant

A bound draft in the air outlet of the new boiler recently installed at the Escanaba steam plant may be the cause of the reduced steam pressure and of that smoke you saw yesterday afternoon, A. V. Aronson, city manager, said this morning.

For the first time, since installation was completed, city employees attempted to put the new boiler in operation yesterday. But after the fires were lit, employees had no control over the boiler.

A representative of the Wicks Boiler company of Saginaw was present yesterday, but neither his efforts nor those of steam plant workers could get the boiler to operate correctly.

The Wicks company has been notified and are expected to send men here shortly to investigate. Meanwhile telephones in the city manager's office and at the steam plant jangle incessantly. Most persons, the city manager said, are very considerate of the situation. He said however that he doesn't blame customers for being disturbed.

On a day like this, it takes about 34,000 pounds of pressure per hour to maintain comfortable heating. This is about the capacity of the two old boilers at the plant. The new one, when it operates, will be able to produce from 45,000 to 50,000 pounds per hour.

The new boiler installation has not been accepted by city officials and will not be until the unit is functioning properly.

Wet coal has added to the problems of the steam plant.

John Payne Stars In 'Dead End' On WDBC At 8 Tonight

John Payne, outstanding young movie actor, stars in Dead End, a drama by Sidney Kingsley, to be broadcast at 8 tonight over WDBC, Escanaba.

Dead End is the story of a man named Gimpy (John Payne), and the story of a boy named Tommy, Gimpy's friend, who lived an undisciplined gang life in Manhattan's East River tenement district. When Tommy got in trouble with the police after an escaped convict had coached and encouraged him to steal, Gimpy tried to help him—tried to explain that Tommy wasn't to blame. In Gimpy's words, and these words were his challenge . . . "It's you and me, and all the people who tolerate slums—who let children grow up in places not fit for cattle."

Dead End is twentieth in the series of challenging dramas, Great Scenes From Great Plays, sponsored weekly by families of the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Actors' Guild.

Merger With Eire Beaten By Voters Of North Ireland

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Feb. 11 (AP)—Supporters of continued partition of Ireland clinched control of Northern Ireland's parliament today in an election fought on the issue of a King-or-Republic.

Victory of the "King's Men" over proponents of a merger with Eire had been a foregone conclusion, but returns from yesterday's balloting indicated political forces which want to stay in the United Kingdom did even better than they had hoped.

Candidates of the pro-British Unionists won seven of the first eight districts reporting, including an upset gain in the Belfast dock district.

Combined with seats from districts where there were no contests, this gave the Unionists 27 sure places in the 52-member parliament, to five for the opposition, with 20 districts still unreported.

Defends Ciney Reds
Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' signing of young catcher Hobey Landrith, a Michigan State varsity prospect, was warmly defended today by a Red official. Fred Fleig, director of the Reds farm organization, said Landrith voluntarily offered his services after reporting that Mrs. Elizabeth LeMire left Friday for Miami, Fla., where she will visit with her daughter Myrtle.

Communists Put Spy Brand On 15 More Churchmen

Emilony Turner, Miss Cooper's successor at Loveth college, a school for girls of high school age.

Stolen Secrets Cited
The four defendants who are members of the supreme council of the Evangelical church were specifically accused of voluntarily organizing a spy network and collecting and delivering to foreign intelligence representatives information on economic, military and political matters.

They were declared to have invited foreign intervention in overthrowing the present regime.

Ziapkow, a Bulgarian delegate to the peace conference at Paris in 1946, was alleged to have imparted state diplomatic secrets to foreign diplomats at that conference.

Some of the accused were declared to have had connections with Nikola Petkov, Bulgarian Peasant party leader who was tried and hanged in September, 1947, on charges of plotting against the government.

Others were charged with contacting Georgi Dimitrov, another opposition leader (not related to Communist Premier Georgi Dimitrov) who left Bulgaria for the United States soon after the war. The defendants, it was alleged, spread rumors of war and fear of atomic bombs, and took money for their spying services which they exchanged on the black market, thereby violating the currency laws.

Topsensharov said the trial would be before a regular criminal court and probably would get underway yet this month. The trial will be open to the public, he said.

Guard Tanks Battle Drifts In Wyoming

Convoys Break Through To Marooned Families

Green River, Wyo., Feb. 11 (AP)—National Guard tanks rumbled into action today in Wyoming's mounting battle against paralyzing snowdrifts and raging gales.

Two medium tanks spearheaded a truck convoy breaking through 40 miles of snow-blocked highway from here to Marsh Creek. No word has been received from two families there for three weeks.

At Rawlins, east of here, the Red Cross readied planes for low level flights over isolated ranches where 500 military rations will be dropped. There are at least 10 families believed in distress in that area.

Casper, oil rich town in central Wyoming, was among the hardest hit by the blizzards. The Red Cross said a 10-ton truck, carrying eight tons of hay to the Casper airport, was overturned by the wind. It blew steadily at 65 miles an hour yesterday with gusts up to 80 miles an hour.

The Union Pacific railroad's transcontinental main line across southern Wyoming was still blocked by snowdrifts. Trains were being rerouted through Salt Lake City and Denver.

Former FBI Agent Heads Racina Group

Miami, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—The newly-formed Michigan Racing Association acquired a general manager yesterday—former FBI man M. Joseph Lynch of Washington, D. C.

The appointment was announced by E. E. Dale Shaffer of Lexington, Ky., president of the MRA. The MRA will conduct racing at the Detroit fairgrounds from May 13 through Aug. 13.

Lynch, 38, said he would resign as head of the Miami and Baltimore branches of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, effective March 3 at the end of the Hialeah Park meeting.

HOT PIRATE YEAR

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 11 (AP)—This may be a blow to the hopeful legion of Pirate fans, but Billy Meyer doesn't believe 1949 is Pittsburgh's year in the National League baseball race. "Pittsburgh folks are all steamed up, but I can't go overboard," said the Pirates' manager. "We have improved our club since last season but we'll have to fight to stay in the first division because two or three other clubs also have improved."

Other clubs including the Detroit Tigers, were "pressuring" him.

IN SERVICE—Ret. Ernest L. Johnson, 19, son of Carl L. Johnson of 1318 North 22nd street, Escanaba, has arrived at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., where he will receive 10 weeks training with the 101st Airborne Division. Born at Kipling, Ret. Johnson attended Menominee high school.

Three Youths Held For Questioning

Three Escanaba boys are being questioned by the Escanaba police department today in an investigation of purse snatching which occurred here yesterday afternoon. One is implicated and two may be held as accessories in the crime.

Mrs. Clinton Priester of 515 South 10th street and Mrs. Paul Maves of 1207 Third avenue south had their purses snatched from them while walking on the street. Mrs. Priester, whose purse was taken in the 1400 block of Fourth avenue south, had $4 and some change in her purse; and Mrs. Maves, whose purse was taken in the 1390 block of First avenue south, had over $70 in hers.

Obituary

LESLIE DeVET, JR.

Funeral services for Leslie DeVet, jr., were held at 9 this morning at St. John's church in Garden with burial in New Garden cemetery. Rev. Patrick Frankard was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass; Rev. Maurice Patrick, O. S. B., deacon, and Rev. Kenneth Ward, C. P., sub-deacon.

The church was packed to its doors for the services with a large attendance of friends of the family from Manistique, Gladstone and Escanaba and neighboring communities.

Pallbearers were Robert Miller, Bud, Jack and Gary DeVet, Myron Johnson and Robert Burger.

Those from out-of-town at the rites were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Don Farley, East Jordan, Mich.; Mr. Maeks and daughter, Kathleen, St. Charles, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz, Green Bay; Charles R. Hermes, Fred Nelus and Joe Kretz, Marmion, Academy, Aurora, Ill.; Rev. Maurice Patrick, O. S. B., Marmion Academy; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stein, Chicago; Robert Meier, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. DeVet and sons, Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. F. Burger and son, St. Charles, Ill.; Frieda DeVet, Oak Park and Ella Jean DeVet and Joanne Farley of St. Charles.

Olympic Ace Killed In Bobsled Accident

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—Stunned by an accident that killed Max Houben, veteran Olympic driver, and critically injured his brakeman, the Belgians withdrew from the world two-man bobsled championships today and left three countries to vie for honors.

The United States, Switzerland and France each will send two teams down the treacherous Mt. Van Hoevenberg run this weekend in quest of the world title. Houben's sled plunged over the rim of the dangerous "Shady Corner" yesterday in a practice run. It left the icy course about half-way down the curling slopes, striking some heavy poles and plunging into a small shed housing water pipes.

Brakeman Jacques Mouvet suffered a fractured skull, a broken collar bone and back injuries.

Mary Agnes Enters Semifinal Round

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Defending champion Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., meets Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., in the semi-finals of the Palm Beach Women's Golf championship today.

Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., takes on Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., in the other match.

Yesterday Miss Kirk defeated Carol Diring of Tiffin, O., three and two, and Miss Lindsay beat Mrs. George Wilcox of Minneapolis and Miami, five and three. Miss Riley eliminated Dot Kiehl of Pebble Beach, Calif., two and one and Miss Wall triumphed over Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., six and five.

GARDELLA SUIT

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—The New York Giants today appeared less concerned than almost any other club in baseball about the law suit brought by Danny Gardella, one-time Giant outfielder. Edgar P. Feeley, treasurer and attorney for the Giants, appeared confident the much discussed reserve clause would be retained in baseball contracts.

Escanaba Invitation Cage Meet Announced

The fourth annual Escanaba invitation independent basketball tournament will be held here March 9, 10, 11 and 12. It was announced this morning by the city recreation department. Competition will be in Classes A and B.

Entry blanks are being mailed to all prospective entries. It is hoped to hold the Class A entry down to eight outstanding teams in the U. P. and the Class B entry roster probably will include 12 to 16 teams.

Individual awards will be given to champion and runnerup team members in both classes.

Vandenberg Says He'll Quit In '52

but credited his colleague had "great ability and sincerity."

Praising Vandenberg's "qualities as a legislator," Sen. George added that he would "particularly" regret Vandenberg's absence because of his "development and promotion of nonpartisan foreign policy."

In his Lincoln Day speech Vandenberg dwelt in length on the GOP's responsibility.

He said the duty of the GOP, as the nation's "loyal opposition," was to see "on the one hand, that our foreign policies are sound and firm, and to see, on the other hand, that we do not over-extend ourselves or over-promise others."

Some quarters may consider this attitude as marking the end of bi-partisan cooperation in foreign affairs, Vandenberg admitted.

"That is not my view," he added tersely.

The election, he said, has changed the foreign policy picture but slightly.

"x x x it will be a sad hour for the Republic if we ever desert the fundamental concept that partisan politics shall stop at the water's edge," he said.

Without this bi-partisan cooperation between Republicans and Democrats in the 80th Congress, Vandenberg said "I hate to think where we and the world would be today."

"I shall be forever proud of the notable Republican contribution to this end," he went on. "We demonstrated our dependability. I shall be forever proud that the Senate Foreign Relations committee upon 47 key occasions found common ground, unanimously voted 13 to 0, and presented a united front to this distraught world."

"In this regard, the 80th Republican Congress was the best in history—presidential campaign oratory to the contrary notwithstanding."

Vandenberg said he personally believed the United States would achieve a lasting peace.

"But we can take nothing for granted," he added. "Pending the precious day of voluntary peace, we shall look to our own national security and we shall keep our powder dry."
